

History

A.G. Rhodes was one of the first nursing organizations to be licensed in Georgia and is currently one of a few nonprofit nursing organizations in the state. The first of the organization's three locations was constructed in 1904 thanks to the generous donation of land and funds from a prominent Atlanta businessman and community leader, Amos Giles Rhodes. Today, the fifth generation of the A.G. Rhodes family serves on our Boards of Trustees and Advisors. Through the years, the organization has adapted extremely well to the times while remaining true to its roots as a family-oriented operation that serves the larger community.

1875

A.G. Rhodes founds a small furniture company, which later becomes Rhodes Furniture.

1897

Hospital officials ask Mr. Rhodes for funding to make repairs but instead he provides land and funding needed for a new building and location.

1900

Amos Giles Rhodes comes to Atlanta while laying crossties for the L&N Railroad. The Hospital of the Atlanta Circle of the King's Daughters and Sons is founded on Church Street (now Carnegie Way).

1904

Construction is complete and the hospital reopens at its new location at the corner Boulevard and Woodward, where today's flagship home is located.

2010

A.G. Rhodes continues to expand its sub-acute and rehabilitation services at its Cobb and Wesley Woods locations.

2011

2012

A.G. Rhodes begins offering horticultural therapy and music therapy. Also in 2014, the Board of Managers changes its name to Board of Advisors.

2014

The organization changes its name from The A.G. Rhodes Homes to A.G. Rhodes Health & Rehab, and Atlanta is renovated to include a state-of-the-art therapy gym.

The Board of Trustees changes the management responsibilities of the organization by creating a nonprofit company to oversee the already established, nonprofit homes.

The organization rebrands to better align with its focus on person-directed care. Our core mission hasn't changed but the way we're delivering our services has evolved and improved.

2019

After exploring ways to improve its model of care, especially for people living with dementia, A.G. Rhodes enters a partnership with the Eden Alternative to train and educate staff in person-directed care.

2018

All three homes have been accepted into the Eden Alternative Registry, making A.G. Rhodes the first standalone nursing home organization in the state with this status. Additionally, A.G. Rhodes is preparing for its first-ever capital campaign.

A.G. Rhodes serves more than 1,300 each year. It is nationally recognized for person-directed care, and is becoming increasingly recognized as a thought-leader in effective dementia care.
