PERSON-DIRECTED CARE

A.G. Rhodes was one of the first organizations in Georgia to embrace a person-directed approach to senior care, which is the kind of care that we all want for our loved ones and ourselves as we age. It means that we tailor care delivery to the unique needs and preferences of each elder.

In addition to prioritizing high-quality care, we prioritize an environment that promotes an exceptional quality of life. Through person-directed care, we recognize that regardless of age or diagnosis, we are all capable of living purposeful and active lives, and we can all make meaningful contributions.

One man's generosity created a remarkable legacy that now spans 120 years.

Our flagship location near Grant Park opened in 1904 thanks to the generous donation of land and funds from Amos Giles Rhodes, a prominent Atlanta businessman, community leader, and founder of Rhodes Furniture.

At A.G. Rhodes, we have kept an unwavering eye toward our mission, maintained financial stability, and pushed the barriers of our sector for 120 years. We continue to be one of the only mission-driven nonprofit nursing home providers that serves our city's uninsured, underinsured, and underserved seniors. At the heart of our mission is our steadfast commitment to people: to the people we serve and their families, and to the compassionate Care Partners who work at A.G. Rhodes.
